Roman funerary practices Sometimes the political elite gave costly public feasts, games and popular entertainments after family funerals, to honour the departed and to maintain their own public profile and reputation for generosity. Roman funerary practices include the Ancient Romans'; religious rituals concerning funerals, cremations, and burials. They were part of time-hallowed tradition (Latin: mos maiorum), the unwritten code from which Romans derived their social norms. The Roman gladiator games began as funeral gifts for the deceased in high-status families. They were part of time-hallowed tradition Roman funerary practices include the Ancient Romans' religious rituals concerning funerals, cremations, and burials. Elite funeral rites, especially processions and public eulogies, gave the family an opportunity to publicly celebrate the life and deeds of the deceased, their ancestors, and the family's standing in the community 2c21e99f75
