and its atmosphere as electrical conductors. His decision to change the design to include wireless. He made public statements citing two related methods to accomplish this from the mid-1890s on. He claimed this system would allow for "the transmission of electric energy without wires" on a global scale as well as point-to-point wireless telecommunications and broadcasting. P. Morgan to finance construction of a wireless station (eventually sited at Warendclyffe) based on his ideas intended to transmit messages across the Atlantic to England and to ships at sea. P. Tesla intended to transmit messages, telephony, and even facsimile images across the Atlantic Ocean to England and to ships at sea based on his theories of using the Earth to conduct the signals. His decision to increase the scale of the facility and implement his ideas of wireless power transfer to better compete with Guglielmo Marconi's radio-based telegraph system was met with refusal to fund the changes by the project's primary backer, financier J. Additional investment could not be found, and the project was abandoned in 1906, never to become operational 8e1007a47d

WHDI enables delivery of uncompressed high-definition digital video over a wireless radio channel connecting any video source (computers, mobile phones, Blu-ray players etc.) to any compatible display device. WHDI was supported by and used in products from companies such as Hitachi, LG Electronics, Motorola, Samsung, Sharp Corporation and Sony, although as of late 2023 the working group leading its development is no longer active. 8e1007a47d

His work laid the foundation for the development of radio, television, and all modern wireless communication systems. 8e1007a47d LTE is based on the 2G GSM/EDGE and 3G UMTS/HSPA standards. It improves on those standards' capacity and speed by using a different radio interface and core network improvements. LTE is the upgrade path for carriers with both GSM/UMTS networks and CDMA2000 networks. LTE has been succeeded by LTE Advanced, which is officially defined as a "true" 4G technology and also named "LTE+". 8e1007a47d
