Mathematical optimization mathematical programming problem (a term not directly related to computer programming, but still in use for example in linear programming – see History Mathematical optimization (alternatively spelled optimisation) or mathematical programming is the selection of a best element, with regard to some criteria, from some set of available alternatives. Optimization problems arise in all quantitative disciplines from computer science and engineering to operations research and economics, and the development of solution methods has been of interest in mathematics for centuries. It is generally divided into two subfields: discrete optimization and continuous optimization dcf2fb3096

In the more general approach, an optimization problem consists of maximizing or minimizing a real function by systematically choosing input values from within an allowed set and computing the value of the function. The generalization of optimization theory and techniques to other... dcf2fb3096
