A prompt is natural language text describing the task that an AI should perform. A prompt for a text-to-text language model can be a query, a command, or a longer statement including context, instructions, and conversation history. Prompt engineering may involve phrasing a query, specifying a style, choice of words and grammar, providing relevant context, or describing a character for the AI to mimic. The show's format consists... When communicating with a text-to-image or a text-to-audio model, a typical prompt is a description of a desired output such as "a high-quality photo of an astronaut riding a horse" or "Lo-fi slow BPM electro chill with organic samples...

BERT (language model) As of 2020, BERT is a ubiquitous baseline in natural language processing (NLP) experiments. The first Bidirectional encoder representations from transformers (BERT) is a language model introduced in October 2018 by researchers at Google. BERT dramatically improved the state-of-the-art for large language models. Its vocabulary size is 30,000, and any token not appearing in its vocabulary is replaced by [UNK] (“unknown”). strategy like byte-pair encoding. It uses the encoder-only transformer architecture. It learns to represent text as a sequence of vectors using self-supervised learning

To enable the encoding of semantics with the data, technologies such as Resource Description Framework (RDF) and Web Ontology Language (OWL) are used. These technologies are used to formally represent metadata. For example, ontology can describe concepts, relationships between entities, and categories of things. These embedded semantics offer significant advantages such as reasoning over data and operating with heterogeneous data sources. aa16f844b3
