Disinfectant Hospital grade means a disinfectant that is suitable for general purpose A disinfectant is a chemical substance or compound used to inactivate or destroy microorganisms on inert surfaces. Disinfectants are generally distinguished from other antimicrobial agents such as antibiotics, which destroy microorganisms within the body, and antiseptics, which destroy microorganisms on living tissue. Disinfection does not necessarily kill all microorganisms, especially resistant bacterial spores; it is less effective than sterilization, which is an extreme physical or chemical process that kills all types of life. Biocides are intended to destroy all forms of life, not just microorganisms, whereas disinfectants work by destroying the cell wall of microbes or interfering with their metabolism. Disinfectants are also different from biocides. "intermediate" or "high" means "low", "intermediate" or "high" level disinfectant respectively. It is also a form of decontamination
