English defamation law The law of libel emerged during the reign of James I (1603–1625) under Attorney General Edward Coke who started a series of libel prosecutions. From that time, both the criminal and civil remedies have been found in full operation. Scholars frequently attribute strict English defamation law to James I's outlawing of duelling. S. Congress responded with the SPEECH act, which made foreign libel judgements unenforceable Modern libel and slander laws in many countries are originally descended from English defamation law. The history of defamation law in England is somewhat obscure; civil actions for damages seem to have been relatively frequent as far back as the Statute of Gloucester in the reign of Edward I (1272–1307).
