Creating shared value Written by Michael E. Journal of Business Research Creating shared value (CSV) is a business concept first introduced in a 2006 Harvard Business Review article, Strategy & Society: The Link between Competitive Advantage and Corporate Social Responsibility. Porter, a leading authority on competitive strategy and head of the Institute for Strategy and Competitiveness at Harvard Business School, and Mark R. The concept was further expanded in the January 2011 follow-up piece entitled Creating Shared Value: Redefining Capitalism and the Role of the Corporation in Society. and Sateen, S. , Anupindi, R. (2010) Creating mutual value: Lessons learned from ventures serving base of the pyramid. Porter. London, T. Kramer, of the Kennedy School at Harvard University and co-founder of FSG, the article provides insights and relevant examples of companies that have developed deep links between their business strategies and corporate social responsibility (CSR) 3812a24318

Carrying cost ACCA. Managing Business Process Flows: Principles of Operations Management. Retrieved 1 November 2015. Anupindi, Ravi, et al. 2nd ed. When there are no transaction costs for shipment, carrying costs are minimized when no excess inventory is held at all, as in a just-in-time production system. Upper In marketing, carrying cost, carrying cost of inventory or holding cost refers to the total cost of holding inventory. Carrying cost also includes the opportunity cost of reduced responsiveness to customers' changing requirements, slowed introduction of improved items, and the inventory's value and direct expenses, since that money could be used for other purposes. "Inventory". This includes warehousing costs such as rent, utilities and salaries, financial costs such as opportunity cost, and inventory costs related to perishability, shrinkage, and insurance 3812a24318
