Rules relating to the distinction between normal and pathological . Durkheim distinguishes between 'facts which are as they should be' and 'facts which ought to be something other than what they are'.

- Normal social facts are those which appear in the most general forms. The others we may call morbid or pathological - Durkheim, however, observes that whether a social fact is normal or not depends on the precise phase of development of a social species.

By a social fact, Durkheim is referring to facts, concepts, expectations that come not from individual responses and preferences, but that come from the social community which socializes each of its members. . Although we might embrace the normative community behavior and share its values, we are constrained by its very existence. . Social facts are laws and customs that are external to and precede the individual. 3958b285ed Emile Durkheim - the rule of sociological method (methodology) #upsc#optional#sociological thinker - Emile Durkheim - the rule of sociological method (methodology) #upsc#optional#sociological thinker 44 minutes - upsc sociological, thinker # Emile Durkheim,. 3958b285ed Durkheim's Rules of Sociological Method Explained | Sociology - Durkheim's Rules of Sociological Method Explained | Sociology 12 minutes, 29 seconds - Durkheim's Rules of Sociological Method Explained | Durkheim's Rules of Sociological Method | MA Sociology\nDurkheim's Rules of ... 3958b285ed
