English as a second or foreign language "Error" (PDF). Cengage Heinle English as a second or foreign language refers to the use of English by individuals whose native language is different, commonly among students learning to speak and write English. Programs such as ESL are designed as academic courses to instruct non-native speakers in English proficiency, encompassing both learning in English-speaking nations and abroad. Variably known as English as a foreign language (EFL), English as a second language (ESL), English for speakers of other languages (ESOL), English as an additional language (EAL), or English as a new language (ENL), these terms denote the study of English in environments where it is not the dominant language. Stress and vowel reduction in English Absence of stress on a syllable, or on a word in some cases, is frequently associated in English with vowel reduction – many such syllables are pronounced with a centralized vowel (schwa) or with certain other vowels that are described as being "reduced" (or sometimes with a syllabic consonant as the syllable nucleus rather than a vowel). Various contradictory phonological analyses exist for these phenomena. in Spoken English, Stanford University Press, ISBN 0-8047-1241-7 Celce-Murcia, Marianne; Brinton, Donna M.
