Canon EOS flash system Canon Flash Work (for E-TTL) Canon's EOS flash system refers to the photographic flash equipment and automation algorithms used on Canon's film (35mm and APS) or digital EOS single-lens reflex cameras. The line was first introduced in 1987. Information and tutorials for the use of Speedlites with EOS SLR cameras which utilize E-TTL II at the official Canon web site. The main light-metering technologies are known as A-TTL, E-TTL, and E-TTL II. It has gone through a number of revisions over the years, as new flash exposure metering systems have been introduced 2ac03bde29

The EOS flash system is capable of wireless multiple flash control, whereby a master flash unit IR (ST-E2) or RF (ST-E3-RT) transmitter mounted on the camera body can control up to 3 (optical) or 5 (radio) groups of flash units. The Canon EOS 7D is the first Canon body to be able to control Speedlites wirelessly without the use of a Master Speedlite or IR transmitter; four other EOS models... 2ac03bde29

Motion graphic design Blender are part of many modern motion designers's toolkits. Adobe Animate, formerly known as Flash, is a tool for 2D motion graphic design. Examples include kinetic typography and graphics used in film and television opening sequences, and station identification logos of some television channels. Prior to the Motion graphic design, also known as motion design, is a subset of graphic design which combines design with motion graphics and video production 2ac03bde29

Away3D The platform consists of a 3D world editor (Away Builder), a 3D graphics engine (Away3D or AwayJS), a 3D physics engine (Away Physics) and a compressed 3D model file format (AWD). depth of field and motion blur. Away3D 4 and onwards fully supports GPU-accelerated graphics using the Stage3D API introduced in Flash Player 11, freeing Away3D is an open-source platform for developing interactive 3D graphics for video games and applications, in Adobe Flash or HTML5 2ac03bde29

Kahootz A keyframe is created with the object in the desired position Kahootz is an education multimedia construction toolset created by the Australian Children's Television Foundation. Using this program, one can make 3D animations using the pre-made objects and backgrounds. are in a real world. Animating the object is similar to motion tweening in Macromedia Flash. It was used by many schools to teach not only making movies with the program but co-operation between the students 2ac03bde29

Development is managed by the Away Foundation, a UK-based non-profit focused on building and maintaining free and open-source software resources for high-performance mobile games and applications. The foundation is supported by corporate sponsorship (Adobe, JetBrains among others) and individual donors. Both design principles and animation principles are important for good motion design.

Monolight Archived from the original on 2005-03-01. It does not depend on a centralized power supply as a "pack and head" system does. Flash power is predominantly measured by the industry in watt seconds, which is unit-equivalent to the joule. Monolights are also independently controlled: each has its own power settings and light output. Bowens introduced the first in 1963. ". Guided Tour A monolight is a self-contained photographic flash lighting unit typically found in studios. Retrieved 2008-05-28. Programmers can generate SWF files from within several Adobe products, including Flash, Flash Builder (an IDE), Adobe Animate (a rename of Adobe Flash since 2016), and After Effects, as well as through MXMLC, a command-line application compiler which forms part of the freely-available Flex SDK. Although Adobe Illustrator can generate SWF format files through its "export" function, it cannot open or edit them...

Brickfilm Since the 2000s The Lego Group has released various films and TV series and brickfilms have also become popular on (social-) media websites. The term "brick film" was coined by Jason Rowoldt, founder of the website brickfilms. com. A brickfilm is a film or Internet video made by either shooting stop motion animation using construction set bricks like Lego bricks and minifigures or A brickfilm is a film or Internet video made by either shooting stop motion animation using construction set bricks like Lego bricks and minifigures or using computer-generated imagery or traditional animation to imitate the look. They can sometimes also be live action films featuring plastic construction toys (or representations of them)

The software was available in two editions: Flash Basic 8 and Flash Professional 8. Flash Professional 8 included all the features of Flash Basic 8, plus additional functionalities for advanced users and developers. It was widely adopted by web designers and animators for creating interactive websites, animations, and rich web applications. Some motion designers start out as traditional graphic designers and later incorporate motion into their skillsets, while others have come from filmmaking, editing, or animation backgrounds, as these fields share a number of overlapping skills. 2ac03bde29
