Factor analysis The observed variables are modelled as linear combinations of the potential factors plus "error" terms, hence factor analysis can be thought of as a special case of errors-in-variables models. CFA uses structural equation modeling to test a measurement model whereby Factor analysis is a statistical method used to describe variability among observed, correlated variables in terms of a potentially lower number of unobserved variables called factors. For example, it is possible that variations in six observed variables mainly reflect the variations in two unobserved (underlying) variables. that tests the hypothesis that the items are associated with specific factors. Factor analysis searches for such joint variations in response to unobserved latent variables 8b81edc6e3
