Wolfe has also learned that Mrs. Bynoe will sport a spray of the pink Vanda at this year's Easter parade in New York, and wonders if Archie knows anyone who would steal it from her. Archie does have a suggestion, a shifty character nicknamed Tabby, who would probably commit petty larceny in public for a couple of hundred bucks. Archie suggests that in addition to arranging for Tabby's services, it might be wise to get a photograph of the orchids. Archie offers to attend the parade too, with Wolfe's new camera. abdfdeb358

Introduced species g. animals) and neophyta (plants). Intentional introductions have been motivated by An introduced species, alien species, exotic species, adventive species, immigrant species, foreign species, non-indigenous species, or non-native species is a species living outside its native distributional range, but which has arrived there by human activity, directly or indirectly, and either deliberately or accidentally. Introductions by humans can be described as either intentional or accidental. The process of human-caused introduction is distinguished from biological colonization, in which species spread to new areas through "natural" (non-human) means such as storms and rafting. neozoon, i. Non-native species can have various effects on the local ecosystem. e. Introduced species that become established and spread beyond the place of introduction are considered naturalized. Neobiota can further be divided into neozoa (also: neozoons, sing. range is human mediated. The Latin expression neobiota captures the characteristic that these species are new biota to their environment in terms of established biological network (e. food web) relationships abdfdeb358

Introduction to evolution Brian; Charlesworth, Deborah (2003). Evolution: A Very Short Introduction. Oxford; New York: Oxford University Press. Very Short Introductions. As the genetic variation of a population drifts randomly over generations, natural selection gradually leads traits to become more or less common based on the relative reproductive success of organisms with those traits. Genetic changes include mutations, which are caused by damage or replication errors in organisms' DNA. Biological populations evolve through genetic changes that sometimes produce changes in the organisms' observable traits. ISBN 978-0-19-280251-4 In biology, evolution is the process of change in all forms of life over generations, and evolutionary biology is the study of how evolution occurs abdfdeb358

The age of the Earth is about 4.5 billion years. The earliest undisputed evidence of life on Earth dates from at least 3.5 billion years ago. Evolution does not attempt to explain the origin of life (covered instead by abiogenesis), but it does explain how early lifeforms evolved into the complex ecosystem that we see today. Based on the similarities between all present-day organisms, all life on Earth is assumed to have originated through common descent from a last universal ancestor from which all known species have diverged through the process of evolution. abdfdeb358
