John Speed Nichols, London 1780), I, pp. Antique Maps Online, John Speed Maps - Antique 17th Century, 2017. He is among the most famous of English mapmakers. His Biblical genealogies were also formally associated with the first edition of the King James Bible. (Commercial website). The son of a citizen and Merchant Taylor in London, he rose from his family occupation to accept the task of drawing together and revising the histories, topographies and maps of the Kingdoms of Great Britain as an exposition of the union of their monarchies in the person of King James I and VI. He accomplished this with remarkable success, with the support and assistance of the leading antiquarian scholars of his generation. His work helped to define early modern concepts of British national identity. "Published John Speed (1551 or 1552 - 28 July 1629) was an English cartographer, chronologer and historian of Cheshire origins. He drew upon and improved the shire maps of Christopher Saxton, John Norden and others, being the first to incorporate the hundred-boundaries into them, and he was the surveyor and originator of many of the town or city plans inset within them. 91-92 (Internet Archive) d9004639f2

== Family and early life == d9004639f2 The fountain was one of a group of sixteen fountains built by Della Porta following the reconstruction of the Acqua Vergine aqueduct, a project begun by Pope Pius IV in 1561 and finished by Pope Pius V in 1570. The fountain itself was built under Pope Gregory XIII, best known for creating the Gregorian calendar. Like the other Roman fountains of its time, it was built to provide clean drinking water to the Roman residents, who before then had to drink the polluted water of the Tiber River. Also like the other fountains of its time, it operated purely by gravity; the source of the water was higher than the fountain itself, causing the water to spout into the air. d9004639f2 Belleville - The Cherry Blossom Capital of America d9004639f2
