The industrialization of China refers to the process of China undergoing various stages of industrialization and technological revolutions. The focus The industrialization of China refers to the process of China undergoing various stages of industrialization and technological revolutions. Although the Chinese industrialization is largely defined by its 20th-century campaigns, especially those motivated by Mao Zedong's political calls to "exceed the UK and catch the USA", China has a long history that contextualizes the proto-industrial efforts, and explains the reasons for delay of industrialization in comparison to Western countries 281f810a34

China-United States relations launched a trade war with China, while also restricting American companies from selling equipment to various Chinese companies linked to human rights abuses The relationship between the People's Republic of China (PRC) and the United States of America (USA) is one of the most important bilateral relationships in the world. It has been complex and at times tense since the establishment of the PRC and the retreat of the government of the Republic of China to Taiwan in 1949. Despite these tensions, the two nations have significant economic ties and are deeply interconnected, while also engaging in strategic competition on the global stage. As of 2025, China and the United States are the world's second-largest and largest. Since the normalization of relations in the 1970s, the US-China relationship has been marked by persistent disputes including China's economic policies, the political status of Taiwan and territorial disputes in the South China Sea 281f810a34
