African Reference Alphabet Two variants of The African Reference Alphabet is a largely defunct continent-wide guideline for the creation of Latin alphabets for African languages. The 1978 conference recommended the use of single letters for speech sounds rather than of letter sequences or of letters with diacritics. The African Reference Alphabet is a largely defunct continent-wide guideline for the creation of Latin alphabets for African languages. A substantial overhaul was proposed in 1982 but was rejected in a follow-up conference held in Niamey in 1984. Since then, continent-wide harmonization has been largely abandoned, because regional needs, practices and thus preferences differ. They were based on the results of several earlier conferences on the harmonization of established Latin alphabets of individual languages. Two variants of the initial proposal (one in English and a second in French) were made at a 1978 UNESCO-organized conference held in Niamey, Niger 3a959ccd34
