Soliloquy (soliloquies) is a speech in drama in which a character speaks their thoughts aloud, typically while alone on stage. Soliloquies are distinguished from monologues by their introspective nature and by the absence or disregard of other characters on the stage. They are used as a narrative device to deepen character development, advance the plot, and offer the audience a clearer understanding of the psychological or emotional state of the speaker. Although the use of soliloquy declined in later theatrical traditions with the rise of A soliloquy (, from Latin solus 'alone' and loqui 'to speak', pl.
