Stress management The process of stress management is a key factor that can lead to a happy and successful life in modern society. Stress produces numerous physical and mental symptoms which vary according to each individual's situational factors. Stress management provides numerous ways to manage anxiety and maintain overall well-being. Richard Rahe and others established that stress is caused by distinct, measurable life stressors, and that these life stressors can be ranked by the median Stress management consists of a wide spectrum of techniques and psychotherapies aimed at controlling a person's level of psychological stress, especially chronic stress, generally for the purpose of improving the function of everyday life. These can include a decline in physical health, such as headaches, chest pain, fatigue, sleep problems, and depression

Wealth This includes the core meaning as held in the originating Old English word weal, which is from an Indo-European word stem. The modern concept of wealth is of significance in all areas of economics, and clearly so for growth economics and development economics, yet the meaning of wealth is context-dependent. definition of wealth in measurable quantities, such as gold and money. A person possessing a substantial net worth is known as wealthy. Modern philosophers like Nietzsche criticized the fixation on measurable wealth: "Unsere Wealth is the abundance of valuable financial assets or physical possessions which can be converted into a form that can be used for transactions. Net worth is defined as the current value of one's assets less liabilities (excluding the principal in trust accounts)

As a psychotherapeutic modality, it is considered a form of clinical behavior analysis, or third-generation behavior therapy. It owes its basis to Charles Ferster's Functional Analysis of Depression (1973), which developed B. F. Skinner's idea of depression. The theory holds that not enough environmental reinforcement or too much environmental punishment can contribute to depression. The goal of the intervention is to increase environmental reinforcement and reduce punishment. Various names of this phenomenon exist, including mind-wandering, fantasies, and spontaneous thoughts. There are many types of daydreams – however, the most common characteristic to all forms of daydreaming meets the criteria for mild dissociation. In addition, the impacts of the various types of daydreams are not identical. While some are disruptive and deleterious, others may be beneficial to some degree.
