The biblical "Mark of Cain" can be interpreted as synonymous with a badge of shame. In England, under the Poor Act 1697, paupers in receipt of parish relief were required to wear a badge of blue or red cloth on the shoulder of the right sleeve in an open and visible manner, in order to discourage people from collecting relief unless they were desperate. While many would be willing to collect relief, fewer would be willing to do so if required to wear the "shameful" mark of the poor in public.
