Epistolary novel The term is often extended An epistolary novel () is a novel written as a series of letters between the fictional characters of a narrative. More recently, epistolaries may include electronic documents such as recordings and radio, blog posts, and e-mails. An epistolary novel (/ɪˈpɪstələri/) is a novel written as a series of letters between the fictional characters of a narrative. The term is often extended to cover novels that intersperse other kinds of fictional document with the letters, most commonly diary entries and newspaper clippings, and sometimes considered to include novels composed of documents even if they do not include letters at all. The word epistolary is derived from Latin from the Greek word epistolē (ἐπιστολή), meaning a letter (see epistle). This type of fiction is also sometimes known by the German term Briefroman or more generally as epistolary fiction d0c218cde0

Romance novels encompass various subgenres, such as fantasy, contemporary, historical romance, paranormal fiction, sapphic, and science fiction. They also contain tropes like enemies to lovers, second chance, and forced proximity.
