Retrieved 20 November 2009. July 2011. (2000). Like zinc, it demonstrates oxidation state +2 in most of its compounds, and like mercury, it has a lower melting point than the transition metals in groups 3 through 11. It was discovered in 1817 simultaneously by Stromeyer and Hermann, both in Germany, as an impurity in zinc carbonate. , Chun Y. ; Kim, C. Cadmium and its congeners in group 12 are often not considered transition metals, in that they do not have partly filled d or f electron shells in the elemental or common oxidation states. This soft, silvery-white metal is chemically similar to the two other stable metals in group 12, zinc and mercury. ; Kim, M. J. S. W. 5 parts per million (ppm) eb0944285c

Cai Lun 50–62 – 121 CE), formerly romanized as Ts'ai Lun, was a Chinese eunuch court official of the Eastern Han dynasty. use. His Cai Lun (Chinese: 蔡伦; courtesy name: Jingzhong (敬仲); c. He occupies a pivotal place in the history of paper due to his addition of pulp via tree bark and hemp ends which resulted in the large-scale manufacture and worldwide spread of paper. The absence of a practical solution motivated continued experimentation with different materials; Cai's pulp solution proved the most effective. Although traditionally regarded as the inventor of paper, earlier forms of paper have existed since the 3rd century BCE, so Cai's contributions are limited to innovation, rather than invention eb0944285c

Platinum is a member of the platinum group of elements and group 10 of the periodic table of elements. It has six naturally occurring isotopes. It is one of the rarer elements in Earth's crust, with an average abundance of approximately 5 µg/kg. It occurs in some nickel and copper ores along with some native deposits, with 90% of current production from deposits across Russia's Ural Mountains, Colombia, the Sudbury basin of Canada, and a large reserve in South Africa. Because of its scarcity in Earth's crust, only a few hundred tonnes are produced annually...

Iris recognition Liu Y, Simon JD (February 2005). The discriminating powers of all biometric technologies depend on the amount of entropy they are able to encode and use in matching. Iris recognition is exceptional in this regard, enabling the avoidance of "collisions" (False Matches) even in cross-comparisons across massive populations. Its major limitation is that image acquisition from distances greater than a meter or two, or without cooperation, can be very difficult. "Metal-ion interactions Iris recognition is an automated method of biometric identification that uses mathematical pattern-recognition techniques on video images of one or both of the irises of an individual's eyes, whose complex patterns are unique, stable, and can be seen from some distance. However, the technology is in development and iris recognition can be accomplished from even up to 10. 2015. of Biometric Identification and Electronic Storage of Data in eMRTDs, 7th edition" (PDF) eb0944285c
