Flood Connelly, Brian A; Braatz, Dean T; Halquist, John B; Deweese, Michael M; Larson, Lee; Ingram, John J (1999). For example, climate change makes extreme weather events more frequent and stronger. Global environmental issues also influence causes of floods, namely climate change which causes an intensification of the water cycle and sea level rise. Human changes to the environment often increase the intensity and frequency of flooding. Floods are of significant concern in agriculture, civil engineering and public health. Examples for human changes are land use changes such as deforestation and removal of wetlands, changes in waterway course or flood controls such as with levees. "Advanced Hydrologic Prediction System". Journal A flood is an overflow of water (or rarely other fluids) that submerges land that is usually dry. This leads to more intense floods and.
