Those who are serious are often motivated by religion or conspiracy theories. Through the use of social media, flat Earth theories have been increasingly espoused and promoted by individuals unaffiliated with larger groups. Many believers make use of social media to spread their views.

Bassoon One who plays a bassoon is called a bassoonist. Appearing in its modern form in the 19th century, the bassoon figures prominently in orchestral, concert band, and chamber music literature, and is occasionally heard in pop, rock, and jazz settings as well. Its fingering system can be quite complex when compared to those of other instruments. It is known for its distinctive tone color, wide range, versatility, and virtuosity. There are two forms of modern bassoon: the Buffet (or French) and Heckel (or German) systems. Sound is produced by rolling both lips over the reed and blowing direct air pressure to cause the reed to vibrate. It is a non-transposing instrument and typically its music is written in the bass and tenor clefs, and sometimes in the treble. It is typically played while sitting using a seat strap, but can be played while standing if the player has a harness to hold the instrument.

It is composed of six pieces, and is usually made of wood. violin, bassoon and piano by the Indonesian composer Ananda Sukarlan's A Curious Coincidence of a Tune Appearance in Austria & Scotland in the Night-Time The bassoon is a musical instrument in the woodwind family, which plays in the tenor and bass ranges

Burgoyne. Commanding a main force of some 8,000 men, he moved south in June from Quebec, boated south on Lake

Champlain to Fort Ticonderoga and from there boated south on Lake George, then marched down the Hudson Valley to August at the Battle of Bennington when militia forces from Vermont, New Hampshire, and Massachusetts defeated, killed, and captured around 1,000 Brunswick-Lüneburg and Hessian troops from Burgoyne's army.
