Founded in October 1983 as quattro GmbH, it primarily specializes in producing high-performance Audi cars and components, along with purchaser specified customizations. The company's former name was a homage to Audi's original four-wheel drive rally-inspired road car—the Audi Quattro. In 2016, the company was renamed Audi Sport GmbH. The PowerVR product line was originally introduced to compete in the desktop PC market for 3D hardware accelerators with a product with a better price-performance ratio than existing products like those from 3dfx Interactive. Rapid changes in that market, notably with the introduction of OpenGL and Direct3D, led to rapid consolidation. PowerVR introduced new versions with low-power electronics that were aimed at the laptop computer market. Over time, this developed...

Introduced in 2003, the V-Series, along with its new 'Art & Science' design language, marked a concerted effort at Cadillac to initiate a brand resurgence, to address their high-performance competition and to attract a younger demographic. The first model was the 2004 Cadillac CTS-V which itself became a successful seller and steered Cadillac in the new direction for the following decade. The results of racing events are decided by finishing position (or time, where measured), while the jumps and throws are won by the athlete that achieves the highest or furthest measurement from a series of attempts. The simplicity of the competitions, and the lack of a need for expensive equipment, makes athletics one of the most common types of sports in the world. Athletics is mostly an individual sport, with the exception of relay races and competitions which combine athletes' performances for a team score, such as cross country.
