The criteria which govern the design of a structure are either serviceability (criteria which define whether the structure is able to adequately fulfill its function) or strength (criteria which define whether a structure is able to safely support and resist its design loads). A structural engineer... a1488e02a6

Structural engineering theory This equation is very common in engineering practice: it describes the deflection of a uniform, static beam. They will also need to know about the corrosion resistance of the materials and structures, especially when those structures are exposed to the external environment. Successive derivatives of w $\{\displaystyle$ Structural engineering depends upon a detailed knowledge of loads, physics and materials to understand and predict how structures support and resist self-weight and imposed loads. the beam. To apply the knowledge successfully structural engineers will need a detailed knowledge of mathematics and of relevant empirical and theoretical design codes a1488e02a6
