Promised (film), a 2019 Australian film featuring Paul Mercurio From at least the Middle Ages to the early 20th century, many jurisdictions regarded a man's promise of engagement to marry a woman as a legally binding contract. If the man subsequently changed his mind, he would be said to be in "breach" of this promise and could be subject to litigation for damages. Promise (2005 film), a Finnish film

Scout Promise Although most Scouting and Guiding organizations use the word "promise", a few, such as the Boy Scouts of America, tend to use "oath" instead. The Scout Promise (or Oath) is a declaration made by a person joining the Scout movement. The wording of the Scout Promise and Scout Law have varied slightly over time and from country to country. Since the publication of Scouting for Boys in 1908, all Scouts and Girl Guides around the world have taken a Scout (or Guide) promise or oath to live up to ideals of the movement, and subscribed to a Scout Law. == Original 1908 text == Richard Marx was asked by A&R executive David Novik if he had any songs that he could give to NSYNC. He specifically requested a ballad. Initially, the song "This I Promise You" was written with a three-person girl group in mind. Marx quickly finished the song writing the harmonies specifically for NSYNC. The converse of that was seldom true. The concept that "it's a woman's prerogative to change her mind" had at least some basis in law (though a woman might pay a high social price for exercising this privilege). Unless a dowry of money or property had changed hands, or the woman could be shown to have become engaged to a man only to enable her use of his money, a man could rarely recover in a "breach of promise" suit against a woman if he was even allowed to file one. == Background == Promise(s) may also refer to:
