Draw (poker) A made starting hand with no help can lose to an inferior starting hand with a favorable draw. In contrast, a made hand already has value and does not necessarily need to draw to win. The probability of catching an out for an inside straight draw is half that A poker player is drawing if they have a hand that is incomplete and needs further cards to become valuable. For example, A-K-Q-J-x or A-2-3-4-x. The hand itself is called a draw or drawing hand. also considered inside straight draws. If an opponent has a made hand that will beat the player's draw, then the player is drawing dead; even if they make their desired hand, they will lose. For example, in seven-card stud, if four of a player's first five cards are all spades, but the hand is otherwise weak, they are drawing to a flush. Not only draws benefit from additional cards; many made hands can be improved by catching an out - and may have to in order to win 3e3e4b1c15
