

Match Annual 2017

The event was based around the men's Royal Rumble match, a modified 30-man battle royal. After the 2016 event deviated from the match's annual tradition of awarding a world championship match at WrestleMania, as the 2016 match itself was for the WWE World Heavyweight Championship (truncated to WWE Championship later that year), the 2017 event returned the match to its annual tradition. Due to the reintroduction of the brand split in July 2016, which added a second world championship to give each brand its own top title, the winner of the 2017 match received a match for their respective brand's world championship at WrestleMania 33: Raw's WWE Universal Championship or SmackDown's WWE Championship.
