Neural correlates of consciousness consciousness are associated with different kinds of conscious experiences. Neuroscientists use empirical approaches to discover neural correlates of subjective phenomena; that is, neural changes which necessarily and regularly correlate with a specific experience. The "awake" state is quite different from the "dreaming" state (for instance, the latter The neural correlates of consciousness (NCC) are the minimal set of neuronal events and mechanisms sufficient for the occurrence of the mental states to which they are related 7a0de2c063
