The book is patterned on Geoffrey Chaucer's The Canterbury Tales, in which pilgrims en route to Canterbury converge with other travelers and tell tales. Here, species convene with their common ancestors, and "Canterbury" is the origin of life. 2da265fc18 The epigraph is from Mark Twain: "History doesn't repeat itself, but it rhymes." The authors argue that "Evolution rhymes, patterns occur. And this doesn't just happen to be so. It is so for well-understood reasons: Darwinian reasons, mostly, for unlike human history or even physics, biology already has its grand unifying theory." They note that no living species is ancestral to any other, but that all share a common ancestor. Evidence for this fact is that the code for translating genes into... 2da265fc18

Fritz the Cat (film) Based on Robert Crumb's comic strip of the same name, the film focuses on its Skip Hinnant-portrayed titular character, a glib, womanizing and fraudulent cat in an anthropomorphic animal version of New York City during the mid-to-late 1960s. Based on Robert Crumb's Fritz the Cat is a 1972 American adult animated black comedy film written and directed by Ralph Bakshi in his directorial debut. The film is a satire focusing on American college life of the era, race relations, and the free love movement, as well as serving as a criticism of the countercultural political revolution and dishonest political activists. == Life and career == Background == Titled as a play on the term "salt and pepper", Assault and Peppered was released on April 24, 1965. It was directed by Robert McKimson and produced by the award-winning DePatie-Freleng, the production house responsible for the Pink Panther and other series of cartoons distributed by United Artists. Its run time is six minutes. Mel Blanc voiced Daffy Duck, Speedy Gonzales, and the mice. == Career == Description == Daffy Duck is in Hollywood producing a movie about King Arthur and the Knights of the Round Table, starring himself; also appearing in the film are Porky Pig, Petunia Pig (in her first on-screen appearance since the 1930s), Sylvester, Tweety, Wile E. Coyote (without his usual foil the Road Runner), Pepé Le Pew, Elmer Fudd, Yosemite Sam, Foghorn Leghorn, and Charlie Dog. (Bugs Bunny, the usual foil of Elmer and Sam, was absent.) MacNeille was a member of the improvisational comedy group The Groundlings for ten years. She sang and appeared (as Lucille Ball) in the music video for "Weird Al" Yankovic's song "Ricky" (1983), which was based on the I Love Lucy television show and parodied the song "Mickey" by Toni Basil. Tiny Toon Adventures features the voices of Charlie Adler, John Kassir, Tress MacNeille, Joe Alaskey, Don Messick, Kath Soucie, Gail Matthius, Maurice LaMarche, Danny Cooksey, Cree Summer, Candi Milo, Rob Paulsen and Frank Welker, while Tiny Toons Looniversity also features the voices of Eric Bauza, Ashleigh Crystal Hairston, David Errigo Jr. and Marieve Herington. Most one-off and background characters in each series are voiced by Jim Cummings, Greg Burson, Noel Blanc, Stan Freberg. In addition to the series' regular cast, various celebrities from a wide range of professions have voiced guest characters and recurring roles. == Debut == This movie is notable for being the one and only time that Warner Bros. Television "loaned out" their famous Looney Tunes characters to appear in a Filmation production, as Warner Bros. had shut down their animation studio in 1969; producer and Filmation founder Lou Scheimer had previously worked for the studio.

Jones introduced Hubie and Bertie in the short The Aristo-Cat, first released on June 19, 1943. The plot of the cartoon would serve as the template for most future Hubie/Bertie outings: a character with some mental illness or degree of naïveté is psychologically tormented by the pair. In "The Aristo-Cat", the cat is left in the care of a butler while its owner is away. After becoming fed up with the spoiled cat's abusive treatment, the butler quits, abandoning the cat. The cat has no one to feed it. It reads in a book that cats eat mice, but has no idea what a mouse looks like. Then the cat encounters Hubie and Bertie and the duo quickly realize the cat does not know they are mice. When the cat asks for help in finding something to eat, they point to a sleeping bulldog outside, telling the hungry cat that it's a mouse. When the cat goes out to eat the dog that...

Fritz the Cat had a troubled production history, with Crumb disagreeing with the filmmakers over the film's artistic direction. Produced on a budget of $700,000, the film was intended by Bakshi to broaden the animation market. At that time, animation was primarily viewed as a children's medium. Bakshi envisioned animation as a medium that could tell more dramatic or satirical storylines with larger scopes, dealing with more mature and...
