Split and merge segmentation Split and merge segmentation is an image processing technique used to segment an image. , Umbaugh, Scott (2017-11-30).). The technique incorporates a quadtree data structure, meaning that there is a parent-child node relationship. The image is successively split into quadrants based on a homogeneity criterion and similar regions are merged to create the segmented result. segmented image is below. Digital Image Processing and Analysis with MATLAB and CVIPtools, Third Edition (3rd ed. The total region is a parent, and each of the four splits is a child. E 634fc1fe5b

Colour banding While posterization is often done for artistic effect, colour banding is an undesired artifact. However the eye can see the difference between the colour levels, especially when there is a sharp border between two large areas of adjacent colour levels. Journal of Biomedical Optics. ; Masters, Barry R. ; Woods, Richard E. Bibcode:2009JBO Colour banding is a subtle form of posterization in digital images, caused by the colour of each pixel being rounded to the nearest of the digital colour levels. "Digital Image Processing, Third Edition". 14 (2): 029901. Rafael C. This will happen with gradual gradients (like sunsets, dawns or clear blue skies), and also when blurring an image a large amount. In 24-bit colour modes, 8 bits per channel is usually considered

Top-hat transform Digital Image Processing (Third Edition) by Rafael C. Retrieved 4 November 2013. Gonzalez and Richard In mathematical morphology and digital image processing, a top-hat transform is an operation that extracts small elements and details from given images. "Morphological Image Processing: Gray-scale morphology" (PDF). Top-hat transforms are used for various image processing tasks, such as feature extraction, background equalization, image enhancement, and others. There exist two types of top-hat transform: the white top-hat transform is defined as the difference between the input image and its opening by some structuring element, while the black top-hat transform is defined dually as the difference between the closing and the input image 634fc1fe5b

Félix González-Torres González-Torres is known for having made significant contributions to the field of conceptual art in the 1980s and 1990s. Digital image A digital image is an image composed of picture elements, also known as pixels, each with finite, discrete quantities of numeric representation for its intensity or gray level that is an output from its two-dimensional functions fed as input by its spatial coordinates denoted with x, y on the x-axis and y-axis, respectively. By itself, the term "digital image" usually refers to raster images or bitmapped images (as opposed to vector images). New York: Academic Press, 1969 Gonzalez, Rafael, C; Woods, Richard E (2008). p.
