Life extension The ethical ramifications, if life extension becomes a possibility. maximum lifespan beyond its generally-settled biological limit of around 125 years. Several researchers in the area, along with "life extensionists" and "immortalists" Life extension is the concept of extending the human lifespan, either modestly through improvements in medicine or dramatically by increasing the maximum lifespan beyond its generally-settled biological limit of around 125 years. Several researchers in the area, along with "life extensionists", "immortalists", or "longevists" (those who wish to achieve longer lives themselves), postulate that future breakthroughs in tissue rejuvenation, stem cells, regenerative medicine, molecular repair, gene therapy, pharmaceuticals, and organ replacement (such as with artificial organs or xenotransplantations) will eventually enable humans to have indefinite lifespans through complete rejuvenation to a healthy youthful condition (agerasia) 5cc58509f3

Life expectancy National LEB figures reported by national agencies and international organizations for human populations are estimates of period LEB. Period LEB is the mean length of life of a hypothetical cohort assumed to be exposed, from birth through death, to the mortality rates observed at a given year. Cohort LEB is the mean length of life of a birth cohort (in this case, all individuals born in a given year) and can be computed only for cohorts born so long ago that all their members have died. This can be defined in two ways. The most commonly used measure is life expectancy at birth (LEB, or in demographic notation  $e_0$ , where  $e_x$  denotes the average life remaining at age  $x$ ). population. Mathematically, life expectancy is denoted  $e_x$   $\{\displaystyle$  Human life expectancy is a statistical measure of the estimate of the average remaining years of life at a given age.
