Clinical trial Clinical trials generate data on dosage, safety and efficacy. Universities and most hospitals have in-house IRBs. These authorities are responsible for vetting the risk/benefit ratio of the trial—their approval does not mean the therapy is 'safe' or effective, only that the trial may be conducted. Other researchers (such as in walk-in clinics) use independent IRBs. The IRB scrutinizes Clinical trials are prospective biomedical or behavioral research studies on human participants designed to answer specific questions about biomedical or behavioral interventions, including new treatments (such as novel vaccines, drugs, dietary choices, dietary supplements, and medical devices) and known interventions that warrant further study and comparison. They are conducted only after they have received health authority/ethics committee approval in the country where approval of the therapy is sought. the local IRB
