Artificial insemination One of the key issues arising from Artificial insemination is the deliberate introduction of sperm into a female's cervix or uterine cavity for the purpose of achieving a pregnancy through in vivo fertilization by means other than sexual intercourse. It is a fertility treatment for humans, and is a common practice in animal breeding, including cattle (see frozen bovine semen) and pigs. sperm may be needed per cycle with IUI (nr=5 million) Thus, only 1-3 samples may be needed for a child if used for IUI

Infants born prior to 37 weeks of gestation are called "premature", those born between 39 and 40 weeks are "full term", those born through 41 weeks are "late term", and anything beyond 42 weeks is considered "post term". The military brat lifestyle typically involves moving to new states or countries many times while growing up, as the child's military family is customarily transferred to new non-combat assignments; consequently, many military brats never have a home town. War-related family stresses are also a commonly occurring part of military brat life. There are also other aspects of military brat life that are significantly different in comparison to the civilian American population, often including living in foreign countries...

German passport Besides serving as proof of identity and presumption of German nationality, they facilitate the process of securing assistance from German consular officials abroad (or other EU members in the case that a German consular facility is absent). German passports are valid for ten years (for people aged 24 and older) or six years (for people under the age of 24. A German passport is, besides the German ID card and the German Emergency Travel Document (called "Reiseausweis als Passersatz"), the only other officially recognised document that German authorities will routinely accept as proof of identity from German citizens. possible with other countries through special permission or if obtained at birth (for example, one German parent and one foreign parent, or if a child is born A German passport (German: deutscher Reisepass, pronounced ['dɔʏtʃə ˈʁaɪzəˌpas]) is an identity document issued to nationals of Germany for the purpose of international travel

Child development therefore encourage healthy development. This Child development involves the biological, psychological and emotional changes that occur in human beings between birth and the conclusion of adolescence. A parent-child relationship with a stable foundation creates room for a child to feel both supported and safe. It is—particularly from birth to five years— a foundation for a prosperous and sustainable society

Childhood is divided into three stages of life which include early childhood, middle childhood, and late childhood (preadolescence). Early childhood typically ranges from infancy to the age of 6 years old. During this period, development is significant, as many of life's milestones happen during this time period such as first words, learning to crawl, and learning to walk. Middle childhood/preadolescence or ages 6–12 universally mark a distinctive period between major developmental transition points. Adolescence is the stage of life that typically...

Sperm donation Using ART treatments Sperm donation is the provision by a male of their sperm with the intention that it be used in the artificial insemination or other "fertility treatment" of one or more females who are not their sexual partners in order that they may become pregnant. motile sperm may be needed per cycle with IUI (nr=5 million) Thus, only one to three samples may be needed for a child, if used for IUI. Sperm donation may also be known as "semen donation". The male is known as a sperm donor and the sperm they provide is known as "donor sperm" because the intention is that the male will give up all legal rights to any child produced from the sperm, and will not be the legal father. Where pregnancies go to full term, the sperm donor will be the biological father of every baby born from their donations
