Teresa González de Fanning Although a somewhat forgotten figure, she is deemed as the precursor to the integral education of women, with practical connotations (including labor formation) as a form of attaining liberation from the patriarchy. She was the widow of Juan Fanning, a Peruvian war hero who perished during the Battle of Miraflores in the War. ISBN 9972-625-50-8 (in Spanish) Institución Educativa Teresa Teresa González de Fanning (Nepeña District, Ancash Region, Peru, 12 August 1836 - Miraflores District, Lima, 7 April 1918) was a Peruvian writer and journalist notable for her activism in the education of women. This is notable because, at the time, Peruvian society still considered that female education should only be aimed at improving their role as housewives. She founded the Liceo Fanning (1881), a women's college, where she implemented her educational approaches. ISBN 9972-40-156-1 (in Spanish) Varios autores: Grandes Forjadores del Perú.
