Basketball Players compete with the primary objective of shooting a basketball through a hoop (a basket mounted to a backboard) at each end of the court. If regulation play expires with the score tied, most basketball leagues mandate additional periods of play (overtime) until the score is no longer tied. Basketball is a team sport in which two teams of five players each (excluding substitutes) oppose one another on a rectangular court. The team with the most points at the end of the game wins. A field goal is worth two points, unless made from behind the three-point line, when it is worth three. Teams alternate between offense (when they attempt to score), and defense (when they try to prevent the opposing side from scoring).
