Seem rather more like primary source material, not encyclopedic, and there may be copyright concerns. Kat 18:06 18 Jun 2003 (UTC) d3e2a4cc01 It's probably petty, but WP is my home page and I've found sites that contain a volume of information in a small area to be far more readable without much text-decoration; I love the option to turn it on/off, and wanted to give someone a heads-up. This anomaly also shows up in IE6, with same behaviors. d3e2a4cc01 The Bush one has never been officially deleted. It was listed on VfD previously but removed because of a large number of votes in support of it. Some of the original supporters later withdrew their support and it was re-listed on October 6th. Therefore, it is due for deletion today. The deletion log does show that it was deleted on 7 October by Stevertigo, but I undeleted it (along with a couple of other things he'd deleted) because I felt it was an out-of-process deletion - ie - it had not been listed on VfD for 7 days. It had been listed for one day. I felt it was easier to... d3e2a4cc01 == 1980s == d3e2a4cc01 There's a server-side caching bug in MediaWiki, which causes people to get the wrong gen=css for their preferences. I've lost the link that's usually on the left of each page to My talk, plus those links have all moved around and it seems the page is a different colour, and some of the links at the bottom of each page seem all bunched up now, and I don't know what else. The only two things I changed were I unchecked Underline links and checked Show edit toolbar. I've changed both back, but nothing. Any suggestions? Exploding Boy 14:15, Jul 25, 2004 (UTC) d3e2a4cc01 Today, suddenly and with no warning, all links on Wikipedia pages were no longer underlined in my browser (Firefox 1.0.6 on MacOS X). I immediately suspected a browser issue, maybe corrupt preferences, restarted it, no change; rebooted the machine, same. I tried a different WP skin, and the underlinig was back. I don't know a lot about CSS or the way WP does style, so I started reading, and found that apparently an editor changed the Monobook.css file and removed one line, d3e2a4cc01 Why are these stupid lists back after VfD votes? Unless there is an explanation that I have not seen I'll assume it was an error and re-delete them.Ark30inf 17:36, 13 Oct 2003 (UTC) d3e2a4cc01 a { text-decoration: underline } d3e2a4cc01 This article was always inaccurate from its first revision (some made up story about an American with potato chips), and has recently, over the past day, been made into a long, satirical article fit for something like Encyclopedia Dramatica and Uncyclopedia. I have checked my user preferences, turned the preference both on and off; checked my browser settings (Firefox 1.0x) emptied the cache on all occasions to re-view the page. d3e2a4cc01 Thanks for reading this - wikipedia and all the wiki efforts are truly an asset to the internet community. For example, "205" in decimal means two hundreds, no tens, and five ones. The same principle applies in place-value notations that uses a base other than ten, such as binary and hexadecimal. The modern use of 0 in this manner derives from Indian mathematics that was transmitted to Europe via medieval Islamic mathematicians and popularized by Fibonacci. It was independently used by the Maya. d3e2a4cc01

I have re-deleted the Hillary article since it had already gone through the VfD process. It was also my understanding that the Bush article had also been deleted through VfD.
