Eelpout Festival While Lota lota is known locally as eelpout, eelpout also may refer to a family of marine fishes. Eel Pout Festival - The International Eelpout Festival is an annual gathering held in the town of Walker, Minnesota. The fish itself is described as a cross between a catfish and eel, giving it a slender disposition but retaining a tapered midsection with a full complement of pectoral and caudal fins. It celebrates the eelpout (or burbot, scientific name Lota lota), an indigenous bottom dwelling fish that inhabits the region's lakes, in some cases being found as deep as 300m. Leech Lake is known for its exceptional walleye fishing, making this festival a banner for the often forgotten eelpout. and the 2018 festival ultimately did not move from Leech Lake.
