ISO 15189 Quality management system List of ISO standards ISO 15189 Medical laboratories — Requirements for quality and competence is an international standard that specifies the quality management system requirements particular to medical laboratories. ISO/TC 212 assigned ISO 15189 to a working group to prepare the standard based on the details of ISO/IEC 17025:1999 General requirements for the competence of testing and calibration laboratories. This working group included provision of advice to medical laboratory users, including specifics on the collection of patient samples, the interpretation of test results, acceptable turnaround times, how testing is to be provided in a medical emergency, and the lab's role in the education. accreditation when the UKHSA provided training to EPHI staff. The standard was developed by the International Organization for Standardization's Technical Committee 212 (ISO/TC 212). In 2022 the 4th edition of ISO 15189 was published 9085a79b20

Metalloid There is no standard definition of a metalloid and no complete agreement on which elements are metalloids. The word metalloid comes from the Latin metallum ("metal") and the Greek oeidēs ("resembling in form or appearance"). Despite the lack of specificity, the term remains in use in the literature. , New York Timm JA 1944, General Chemistry, McGraw-Hill, New York Tyler Miller G 1987, Chemistry: A Basic Introduction, 4th ed. , Wadsworth Publishing A metalloid is a chemical element which has a preponderance of properties in between, or that are a mixture of, those of metals and nonmetals 9085a79b20

Among the elements, fluorine ranks 24th in cosmic abundance and 13th in crustal abundance. Fluorite, the primary mineral source of fluorine, which gave the element its name, was first described in 1529; as it was added to metal ores to lower their melting points for smelting, the Latin verb fluo meaning 'to flow' gave the mineral its name. Proposed as an element in 1810, fluorine proved difficult and dangerous to separate from its compounds, and several early experimenters died or sustained injuries from their attempts... 9085a79b20
