Self-fulfilling prophecy danger and her curiosity. In the phenomena, people tend to act the way they have been expected to in order to make the expectations come true. The three witches prophecy that Macbeth will eventually A self-fulfilling prophecy is a prediction that comes true at least in part as a result of a person's belief or expectation that the prediction would come true. Shakespeare's Macbeth is another classic example of a self-fulfilling prophecy. Interpersonal communication plays a significant role in establishing these phenomena as well as impacting the labeling process. A self-fulfilling prophecy can have either negative or positive outcomes. Merely applying a label to someone or something can affect the perception of the person/thing and create a self-fulfilling prophecy. Self-fulfilling prophecies are an example of the more general phenomenon of positive feedback loops b01a45af6b
