Lysippos Together with Scopas and Praxiteles, he is considered one of the three greatest sculptors of the Classical Greek era, bringing transition into the Hellenistic period. Not only did he have a large workshop and many disciples in his immediate circle, but there is understood to have been a market for replicas of his work, supplied from outside his circle, both in his lifetime and later in the Hellenistic and Roman periods. Identifying his style in the copies which survive. The Victorious Youth or Getty bronze, which resurfaced around 1972, has been associated with him. Not only did he have a large workshop and many disciples in his immediate circle, but there is understood to Lysippos (; Ancient Greek: Λύσιππος) was a Greek sculptor of the 4th century BC. Problems confront the study of Lysippos because of the difficulty in identifying his style in the copies which survive 3645dde1d6

Leyland P76 specifications, repair and maintenance data. 1974. Scientific Publications's workshop manual series, no. 141. ISBN 0-85566-191-7 The Leyland P76 is a large car that was produced by Leyland Australia, the Australian subsidiary of British Leyland. Sydney: Scientific Publications. The combination of the rushed assembly, fuel crisis and strikes at the component manufacturers' factories, resulted in the Leyland P76 being labelled a lemon, despite being named Wheels Car of the Year in. Featuring what was described at the time as the "standard Australian wheelbase of 111 inches", it was intended to provide the company with a genuine rival to large local models like the Ford Falcon, the Holden Kingswood, and the Chrysler Valiant. But, due to the first real fuel crisis and demand far exceeding the supply,

Leyland rushed the assembly process with the first of the P76s to come off the assembly line, resulting in poor build quality and some reliability problems 3645dde1d6

It was externally identical to the Wolseley 15/60. The car was also an up-market version of the contemporary Austin Freeway, employing different frontal and rear styling in order to maximise the perceived differences between the two cars and therefore, it was hoped, attract additional buyers away from the General Motors-Holden competition. This reflected BMC's policy of badge engineering in the 1950s and 1960s. 3645dde1d6
