Increased interest in the distinction of gender for workers in correctional facilities has some relevance to the shift in this occupation being predominantly male-dominated to, in some cases, being more female-dominated. The focus of research on female correctional officers has mostly been comparatively discussing the male officers' experience versus the female officer's experience. The notion of a genderless language is distinct from that of gender neutrality or gender-neutral language, which is wording that does not presuppose a particular natural gender. A discourse in a grammatically genderless language is not necessarily gender-neutral, although genderless languages exclude many possibilities for reinforcement of gender-related stereotypes, as they still include words with gender-specific meanings (such as "son" and "daughter"), and may include gender distinctions among pronouns (such as "he" and "she"). 1a0ca6f005 A movement referred to as gender-critical feminism or trans-exclusionary radical feminism holds that womanhood is defined on the axis of sex, and thus asserts that trans women are not women and that trans men are not men.
