Gift economy The Kula trade appeared to be gift-like since Trobrianders would travel great A gift economy or gift culture is a system of exchange where valuables are not sold, but rather given without an explicit agreement for immediate or future rewards. This contrasts with a market economy or bartering, where goods and services are primarily explicitly exchanged for value received. Social norms and customs govern giving a gift in a gift culture; although there is some expectation of reciprocity, gifts are not given in an explicit exchange of goods or services for money, or some other good or service.
