The series was intended as a response to Kenneth Clark's Civilisation TV series, which represents a more traditionalist view of the Western artistic and cultural canon, and the series and book criticise traditional Western cultural aesthetics by raising questions about hidden ideologies in visual images. According to James Bridle, Berger "didn't just help us gain a new perspective on viewing art with his 1972 series Ways of Seeing - he also revealed much about the world in which we live. Whether exploring the history of the female nude or the status of oil paint, his landmark series showed... 4fee58111b Hallucination, a perception in the absence of a stimulus 4fee58111b

Realism (art movement) Nineteenth Century Art, A Critical History. Realism was primarily concerned. Realist works depicted people of all social classes in situations that arise in ordinary life, and often reflected the changes brought by the Industrial and Commercial Revolutions. Manstein, Marianne von, and Bernhard von Waldkirch. The artist Gustave Courbet, the original proponent of Realism, sought to portray real and typical contemporary people and situations with truth and accuracy, not avoiding unpleasant or sordid aspects of life. The Art of Seeing: Wilhelm Leibl Realism was an artistic movement that emerged in France in the 1840s. (2019). Realists rejected Romanticism, which had dominated French literature and art since the early 19th century. Realism revolted against the exotic subject matter, exaggerated emotionalism, and the drama of the Romantic movement, often focusing on unidealized subjects and events that were previously rejected in artwork.
