Education in Ghana international organizations. Economic activities in pre-colonial Ghana were based on farm produce shared within households and members of each household specialized in providing necessities such as cooking utilities, shelter, clothing, and furniture, and trade with other households was therefore. However, learning systems existed prior to that. During colonisation, European settlers initially introduced a formal education system addressed to the elites[2], while education of the average citizen was mainly informal, and based on apprenticeship. The University of Moliyili is one of the earliest learning centers in Ghana established in the 1700s. The current formal educational system was introduced during European colonisation. Increasing vocational education and training in ICT within the education system are also emphasized in Ghanaian education policy Education in Ghana uses a dualistic approach encompassing both formal and informal learning systems 39ed74be1c
