Readability might focus on clear and concise language and formatting that allows easy-reading. The concept exists in both natural language and programming languages though in different forms. In natural language, the readability of text depends on its content (the complexity of its vocabulary and syntax) and its presentation (such as typographic aspects that affect legibility, like font size, line height, character spacing, and line length). In contrast, a scholarly journal would use sophisticated writing that Readability is the ease with which a reader can understand a written text. In programming, things such as programmer comments, choice of loop structure, and choice of names can determine the ease with which humans can read computer program code

In most US and some Canadian colleges and universities, undergraduates take freshman or higher-level composition courses.
