Dramatism so-called "I" is merely a unique combination of potentially conflicting corporate "we's". Burke viewed dramatism from the lens of logology, which studies how people's ways of speaking shape their attitudes towards the world. Burke recognized guilt as the base of human emotions and motivations for action. For example, the use of the people rather than the worker would more Dramatism, a communication studies theory, was developed by Kenneth Burke as a tool for analyzing human relationships through the use of language. Burke then correlates dramatism with motivation, saying that people are "motivated" to behave in response to certain situations, similar to how actors in a play are motivated to behave or function. According to this theory, the world is a stage where all the people present are actors and their actions parallel a drama. Burke discusses two important ideas – that life is drama, and the ultimate motive of rhetoric is the purging of guilt 494a32db3f
