One version reached Europe in the 11th century. To quote Edgerton (1924): f8bb1562e4 Since Fleming's death, other authors have written continuation works. Some of these have been novelisations of episodes in the series of James Bond films, produced by Eon Productions, while others were either continuation novels or short stories. The first author was Kingsley Amis, writing under the pseudonym of Robert Markham, who produced one novel. He was followed by novelist and biographer John Pearson, who wrote a fictional biography of Bond. The novelist and screenwriter Christopher Wood wrote two novelisations in the late 1970s. John Gardner was asked to continue the series by Ian Fleming Publications... f8bb1562e4 Burton was initially uninterested in directing a sequel to Batman, feeling creatively constrained by Warner Bros.' expectations. He agreed to return only after being granted greater creative control, which included replacing writer Sam Hamm with Daniel Waters and reuniting with many of his previous collaborators. Waters's script emphasized characterization over plot, and Wesley Strick was later hired for an uncredited rewrite that added... f8bb1562e4 The lake is home to many species of fish which live nowhere else, especially cichlids. Story within a story A play may include a brief play within it, as in Shakespeare's Hamlet (a "play within a play"); a film may show the characters watching a short film; or a novel may contain a short story within it. If the majority of a whole story's content is introduced or presented using the device of a story within a story (a less-detailed "outer" story that contains the main detailed story), this is also called a frame narrative. A story within a story can thus occur in any narrative forms, including poems and songs. All levels tell stories of the same person, Trurl. Cyberiad has several levels of storytelling. House of Leaves is the tale of a man who finds a manuscript A story within a story, also referred to as an embedded narrative, is a narrative device in which a character within a story becomes the narrator of a second story.
