Cave diving A distinction is made by recreational diver training agencies between cave-diving and cavern. It may be done as an extreme sport, a way of exploring flooded caves for scientific investigation, or for the search for and recovery of divers or, as in the 2018 Thai cave rescue, other cave users. ; Kincaid, T. Dive Logistics of the Turner to Wakulla Cave Traverse.). Recreational cave-diving is generally considered to be a type of technical diving due to the lack of a free surface during large parts of the dive, and often involves planned decompression stops. ; Pollock, N. The equipment used varies depending on the circumstances, and ranges from breath hold to surface supplied, but almost all cave-diving is done using scuba equipment, often in specialised configurations with redundancies such as sidemount or backmounted twinset. Proceedings Cave-diving is underwater diving in water-filled caves. W. (2008). R. (eds. Brueggeman, P. Diving for Science 2008. McKinlay, C

Occasionally, starving people have resorted to cannibalism for survival. Classical antiquity recorded numerous references to cannibalism during siege-related famines. More recent well-documented examples include the Essex sinking in 1820, the Donner Party in 1846 and 1847, and the Uruguayan Air Force Flight 571 in 1972.
