Shark (2018). S2CID 229399689. The earliest confirmed modern sharks (Selachii) are known from the. Modern sharks are classified within the division Selachii and are the sister group to the Batomorphi (rays and skates). ISSN 0305-8719. Oxford University Press. pp. Vertebrate Life, 10th Edition. 1144/SP512-2020-91. 96–103 Sharks are a group of elasmobranch cartilaginous fishes characterized by a ribless endoskeleton, dermal denticles, five to seven gill slits on each side, and pectoral fins that are not fused to the head. Some sources extend the term "shark" as an informal category including extinct members of Chondrichthyes (cartilaginous fish) with a shark-like morphology, such as hybodonts. Pough, F. Shark-like chondrichthyans such as Cladoselache and Doliodus first appeared in the Devonian Period (419–359 million years), though some fossilized chondrichthyan-like scales are as old as the Late Ordovician (458–444 million years ago). Reptiles have been subject to several conflicting taxonomic definitions. In evolutionary taxonomy, reptiles are gathered together under the class Reptilia (rep-TIL-ee-ə), which corresponds to common usage. Modern cladistic taxonomy regards that group as paraphyletic, since genetic and paleontological evidence has determined that crocodilians are more closely related to birds... 351c4d4fb0

Tooth , 2013. 9th Ed. 211-252. Print. Vertebrate Life. : teeth) is a hard, calcified structure found in the jaws (or mouths) of many vertebrates and used to break down food. Teeth are not made of bone, but rather of multiple tissues of varying density and hardness that originate from the outermost embryonic germ layer, the ectoderm. Kardong, Kenneth (1995). The roots of teeth are covered by gums. S2CID 252569771. Pough, Harvey. Vertebrate: Comparative A tooth (pl. Boston: Pearson Education, Inc. Some animals, particularly carnivores and omnivores, also use teeth to help with capturing or wounding prey, tearing food, for defensive purposes, to intimidate other animals often including their own, or to carry prey or their young 351c4d4fb0

The general structure of teeth is similar across the vertebrates, although there is considerable variation in their form and position. The teeth of mammals have deep roots, and this pattern is also found in some fish, and in crocodilians... 351c4d4fb0

Desert ecology doi:10. ; Heiser, John B. A desert ecosystem is defined by interactions between organisms, the climate in which they live, and any other non-living influences on the habitat. Pearson. 1111/j. Harvey; Janis, Christine M. 2011. 1466-8238. x. ISBN 978-0-321-77336-4 Desert ecology is the study of interactions between both biotic and abiotic components of desert environments. pp. 00737. Pough, F. 549-556.). Deserts are arid regions that are generally associated with warm temperatures; however, cold deserts also exist. (2013). Deserts can be found in every continent, with the largest deserts located in Antarctica, the Arctic, Northern Africa, and the Middle East. Vertebrate Life (9th ed 351c4d4fb0
