Read all of this web page carefully because it contains important information for you. Keep the link to it in safe custody, you may need to read this web page again. "Leadership" is a contested term. Specialist literature debates various viewpoints on the concept, sometimes contrasting Eastern and Western approaches to leadership, and also (within the West) North American versus European approaches.

Wikipedia:Language learning centre/Word list wordsmith wordy wore work workability workable workaday workbench workbook workbooks workday workdays worked worker workers workfare workforce workforces
Drawing up a comprehensive list of words in English is important as a reference when learning a language as it will show the equivalent words you need to learn in the other language to achieve fluency. Eventually these words will all be translated into big lists in many different languages and using the words in phrase contexts as a resource. You can use the list to generate your own lists in whatever language you're learning and to test yourself. A big list will constantly show you what words you don't know and what you need to work on and is useful for testing yourself

Leadership (2010). I/O applications workbook: Industrial/organizational psychology Leadership, is defined as the ability of an individual, group, or organization to "lead", influence, or guide other individuals, teams, or organizations. New York: Wadsworth. R. Aamodt, M. D. Group dynamics. G. ISBN 9780495599524. (2009)

Some U.S. academic environments define leadership as "a process of social influence in which a person can enlist the aid and support of others in the accomplishment of a common and ethical task". In other words, leadership is an influential power-relationship in which the power of one party (the "leader") promotes movement/change in others (the "followers"). Some have challenged the more traditional managerial...
